STUDIES AND RESEARCH

My research interests are focused on two areas, the methodology of social sciences and the sociology of health. Studies related to the first area concentrate on the methods and epistemology of qualitative research and on the use of the theory of argumentation as instruments to improve the rigour of this research approach. In the second area, the sociology of health, my interests are directed toward health inequalities, mental health and disability, and vaccination policies.

I am involved as Work Package Leader in a Horizon 2020 research, started in 2021 March: VAX-TRUST - Addressing vaccine hesitancy in Europe (<https://vax-trust.eu/>). The WP I lead is devoted to carrying out a team ethnography of the relationship between parents and health professionals.
